Hogges receive a treat for their feet

Date Posted: Wednesday, June 13, 2007

Author: Nastassja Johnston

The Bermuda Hogges, the island's first professional football team, have been given 28 pairs of 'Zendals' from the Ocean Spa at Cambridge Beaches.

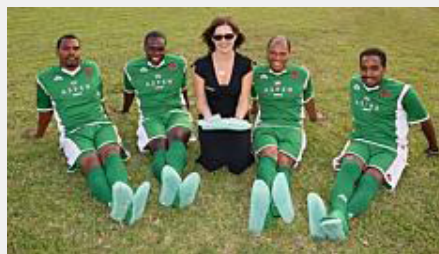

The sandals are based on the principles of reflexology, a practice which is used on the feet to restore and maintain the body's natural equilibrium.

Spa director Louise Palmer. said:

"These Zendals are based on the principles of reflexology; the massaging circles apply acupressure to the points in the soles of your feet, providing comfort and healthy simulation with every step you take."

Team co-owner Shaun Goater said he was excited by the number of donations the team has attracted.

He said: "We are pleased to have the support of so many businesses and individuals- I can guarantee that we will do our best on the field. A players feet are important and these will help to keep them feeling good!"
